JAP SITUATION STARTS DEBATE IN THE SENATE

Washington, May 20.—Debate on the Japanese situation with pointed references to the Yapt dispute and the proposed renewal next month of the British-Japanese treaty of alliance, opened in the senate today, and the senate adjourned over the Saturday-Sunday week end until Monday. Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois, a Republican member of the senate foreign relations committee was one of the several senators who indicated their intention to use the proposed Borah disarmament amendment and the planned establishment of naval bases and stations on the Pacific coast and in Pacific waters as a vehicle for free discussion of the entire Japanese question.

Members of the senate foreign relations committee have received with surprise the news of the "right about face" executed by the Australian and New Zealand premiers on the proposed renewal of the British-Japanese alliance. The two premiers are now understood to favor, instead of opposing as they formerly did, the continuation of the pact thereby leaving Canada alone in its opposition to it.

The Canadians are represented as being opposed to any international move by the British government at this time which would incur the disapproval and disfavor of the United States.

Senators have also been reliably informed that Premier Lloyd George is now too enthusiastic over a renewal of the treaty and a verbal tempest over it is brewing in the British parliament.

The debate probably will lead to a discussion of the league of nations once more and the relation of the league covenant to the serious international situation involved in the British-Japanese treaty.

SITUATION WORSE IN UPPER SILESIA

London, May 20.—The situation in Upper Silesia is becoming worse and the Polish bands are developing strong bolshevik tendency, according to official advice received by the foreign office today.

It is said that John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, may succeed the veteran leader, Lewis, while not a candidate for the office, is said to be "willing" to accept.

HARDING REVIEWS TROOPS

UNITED STATES ENVOY TO ITALY

Richard W. Child and family.

A charming family group showing Mr. Richard Washburn Child, noted author and recently nominated to be United States Ambassador to Italy, his wife and their two charming children. Baby Constance and Anne, who is three years old. Mr. Child is well-known through his fiction and articles on public questions.

He aided in directing the publicity work during the Republican Presidential campaign last summer, and also made many speeches for Mr. Harding. During the war he was assistant to Frank A. Vanderlip in war finance work. Mrs. Child is also an author of note, writing under her maiden name, Maude Parker.

EUROPEAN ATMOSPHERE CLEARED BY SPEECH OF GEORGE HARVEY

Ambassador's Declaration That U. S. Entered War For Own Interests and Not Europe's Arouses Much Discussion In England.

London, May 20.—There was united opinion today both in official circles and in the press that the European atmosphere has been greatly cleared by the speech of Ambassador Harvey. It was recognized that the ambassador spoke both for President Harding and the American nation when he briefly outlined the future foreign policy of his country.

The declaration that aroused most comment and was regarded as most significant was that the United States will not enter the league of nations.

The instructions to sit at the session of the supreme council which will take up the troublesome Upper Silesian issue came direct from President Harding the ambassador revealed.

Another section of the Ambassador's speech which aroused much discussion was his reference to America's part in the war. Mr. Harvey declared that the United States did not send an army across the Atlantic to save any particular European nation but to protect America in the future. He referred back to a historic phrase of former President Woodrow Wilson, when he said:

"We were not too proud to fight, whatever that may mean. We were afraid not to fight. That is the real truth of the matter. So we came along and helped you win the war."

Mr. Harvey's speech was regarded today as one of the most important international declarations ever made publicly by a foreign ambassador to England.

Premier Lloyd George who was present, said that the help of the United States is necessary if the peace of Europe is to be maintained.

BANKRUPTCY FACES LABOR UNIONS OF ENGLAND IS WORD

London, May 20.—Financial bankruptcy is threatening the labor unions as a result of the heavy drain for benefit payments since the national mine strike began fifty days ago, it was admitted today by labor leaders.

In Derbyshire some of the striking miners are receiving only $1.25 a week from their local union while others are receiving less than this amount.

A warning that all the unions including the powerful federation of miners will soon be penniless if the strike movement keeps up, was sounded by former Minister Roberts, one of the leaders of the British labor party.

"We are threatened with bankruptcy," said Mr. Roberts. "The membership of the unions is declining. Trade unionism may cease to be a force in Great Britain for a generation because we are pursuing spurious international ideals."

The ocean going stewards at Liverpool have already broken away from the maritime union and are forming a new association.

FLAGS AT HALF MAST FOR WHITE

Washington, May 20.—Flags on all government buildings drooping at half mast today gave mute evidence of the sorrow of official Washington over the death of Chief Justice Edward Douglas White. For thirty days the flags will carry the message of the nation's sorrow to all parts of the country and to every foreign country where the United States government maintains official quarters.

The funeral of the chief justice tomorrow probably will be the most impressive Washington has seen in years. President Harding himself will head the long list of high officials who will join in paying a last tribute to the well beloved justice.

GERMANY MASSING FORCES TO CHECK ONSLAUGHT OF INSURGENT POLES

Briand and Lloyd George Will Meet In Conference

Will Discuss Upper Silesian Trouble at Session Preliminary to Meeting of Inter-Allied Supreme Council —May Reach Understanding.

Paris, May 20.—Premier Briand has consented to an immediate conference with Premier Lloyd George preliminary to the meeting of the inter allied supreme council which will discuss the Upper Silesian trouble, it was learned today. This latest development in the strained situation between Great Britain and France followed reports current Thursday that a meeting of the premiers would not take place before the conference of the supreme council. The hope was expressed in official circles today that the French and British premiers will reach an understanding ending Anglo-French tension before the council convenes.

If the debate in the chamber of deputies upon the government's policy ends tonight, a conference of the premiers may be held at Boulogne Saturday. Otherwise it probably will take place Sunday or Monday.

It is understood that M. Briand has sent a communication to Premier Lloyd George telling him that if it is impossible for them to reach some sort of preliminary agreement, it will be useless to call a meeting of the supreme council until after the inter allied commission in Upper Silesia has reached a formal agreement on the future statement.

FRENCH TROOPS STAGE MUTINY AT PLOMBIERES

Regulars Called To Quell Outbreak Of Radicalism.

Paris, May 20.—An entire camp of French military reservists who had been called to the colors for service in the Ruhr district of Germany, mutinied at Plombieres, near Dijon, and paraded the streets with red flags, meanwhile singing revolutionary songs, it was revealed today by the socialist newspaper L'Humanite.

The report of the mutiny was partly confirmed in semi official circles but the affair was passed off as a "slight incident."

According to L'Humanite a lieutenant attempted to quell the outbreak while at its height but was mobbed. The disorders were not put down until troops were rushed from Dijon. When the reservists began to entrain protests again broke out and it was necessary for a company of infantry with fixed bayonets to stand by to prevent another outbreak. Regular infantry reinforced with cavalry supervised the departure of the mutinous reservists from Plombieres, the socialist newspaper said.

POLITICAL RIOTING IN ULSTER STILL CAUSING TROUBLE

Number Of Persons Are Injured In Severe Outbreak.

Belfast, May 20.—Political rioting in Ulster is increasing. Disorders during which a number of persons were wounded occurred in this city throughout the night.

Part of the city hall that had been designated as the meeting place of the northern Ireland parliament was blown up with dynamite.

A unionist (anti-Sinn Feiner) was fatally wounded in fighting in Shankill road.

Three persons were wounded in fighting between unionists and republicans in East Belfast.

There was another outbreak of rioting this morning in which many persons, including two girls, were wounded by bullets. Soldiers in armored cars and policemen finally restored order.

BIG OFFENSIVE IS AWAITED IN UPPER SILESIA

Twelve Thousand German Troops Are Concentrated

VOLUNTEERS ARRIVE

France Demands That Germany Send Money To Silesia.

Berlin, May 20.—Twelve thousand Germans have been concentrated in the Breslau district of Upper Silesia to fight the Polish insurgents and a counter offensive on a big scale probably will be under way within a few days, according to private dispatches received here today from Breslau.

Between 1,000 and 2,000 German volunteers are arriving in the Breslau district daily from Germany and from other parts of Upper Silesia. The men are without arms but it is reported that the commander of the Italian troops in Upper Silesia has promised to supply with arms and ammunition.

From Breslau the volunteers are being to Neisse, Namslau and Kreuzberg, which will be the three bases of operation for an attack. It is learned that former army officers will lead the volunteers and that the advance will be made according to regulation army staff plans. The volunteers are mostly former officers. They were carefully picked from the population of Upper Silesia so that the German people in all parts of the province would be represented in the "army."

As they arrive at Breslau, the German volunteers are equipped with a complete outfit of shoes, underwear and civilian clothing. None will wear uniforms.

France has sent a note to Germany ordering the Berlin reichstag to send money into Upper Silesia to pay the coal miners. It is feared that the Polish uprising will be prolonged if this money falls into the hands of Adelbert Korfanty's rebel bands.

According to Dr. Urbanek, the German plebiscite commissioner in Upper Silesia, Korfanty withheld news of his withdrawal order from the Poles in the Pless district.

"Korfanty's announcement that he had ordered withdrawal of the Polish insurgents was camouflage to bluff the allies," said Dr. Urbanek. "Local Polish leaders in Upper Silesia are following their own policies. Korfanty is hard pressed for money and is confiscating all the money except a small amount for traveling expenses from the refugees."

CONTEST ATTRACTS MUCH INTEREST ON INITIAL APPEARANCE

Just a word to make clearer the instructions in our Mis-spelled Word Contest, especially to the younger folks. The number of words that are mis-spelled in the page for each week will be three, and the ages will appear every Wednesday for twelve weeks, making a total of 36 words to be found throughout the contest.

Now the instructions should have read very clearly that there were three words on this first page purposely mis-spelled, the first one having 7 letters, the second one having 8 letters and the third one having 7 letters. Be sure that the words you turn in conform to these instructions. Look out, there might be another word or so mis-spelled purposely that would not have the right number of letters, so watch your step. Also, some weeks might be easy, and again other weeks will be comparatively hard.

Now you have until Tuesday next, so get your answer to us at the earliest possible moment, be sure that you are right then forward the blank.

Much interest was aroused over the first installment of the contest yesterday. Reports coming to the Gazette and Republican office indicated that many are digging into the contest with zest. Watch for the next installment on Wednesday in the Gazette and on Thursday in the Republican. Remember you have just as much chance to get correct answers as anyone, and your slogan may be much better than the other fellows.

OBITUARY

Leaves have their time to fall, and flowers to wither at the North Wind's breath,
And stars to set; but all,
Thou hast all seasons for their own O death.

In such a way as the sun was sinking out of sight on the beautiful spring evening of May 4th, 1921, Alfred Haines, son of Samuel and Mary Haines passed out of this life at the age of 56 years, 4 months and 3 days.

He was born 12th month, 31st, 1864; the eleventh of a family of twelve children, seven of these together with an infant daughter, Hazel M., have preceded him to the great beyond.

August 8th, 1889, he was united in marriage to Viora M. Ary. She, with the three daughters, Edith Haines Hurley, who lives nearby, Helen and Mary Esther still living in the home, three sisters, Eunice Bales of Auburn, Ind.; Julia A. Haines of near Lumberton and Hannah Colvin of Spring Valley, one brother Elb of Wilmington and three grandchildren are left to mourn the loss of a loving and faithful husband and father.

He was a life long member of the New Hope Friends Church. When quite a young man he was converted during a series of meetings held there by James Haines. He has continued to be one of New Hope's most loyal and faithful members. His presence and interest was always in evidence when health permitted. Has been an elder for a number of years, giving evidence that his interest in the church claimed his uppermost thought and attention. He was also a charter member of the Modern Woodman of America and the Grange. A faithful member on the board of education for 8 years, serving as president for 5 years, having resigned recently on account of failing health. For the past 2 years his failing health and sickness has been borne with remarkable patience, and faith in God seemingly unwavering. His love and loyalty to home, wife and children have been exemplary and true. Can we wonder at him having a desire to live longer with his family and especially did he desire that he might become strong enough to attend the exercises when his daughter, Mary Esther graduated. But we believe the honors, diplomas and crowns that this would give are as nothing in comparison to "the robe, the crown, the palm, that he will receive from the fields which he has sown," and so we must now think of our dear one as:

"Out of the shadow and into the sunshine,
Cloudless, eternal that fades not away,
Softly and tenderly Jesus hath called him,
Home, where the ransomed are gathering today.

"Out of the shadow land, over life's ocean,
Into the rapture and joy of our Lord,
Safe in the Father's house, welcomed by Angels,
His the bright crown and eternal reward.
"Silently, peacefully angels have

Professor Budlong Puts Tanlac to Test

PROF. C. J. BUDLONG, Manchester, N. H.

"It's an actual fact, I'm in good health for the first time in thirty years and I owe my present splendid condition to Tanlac and nothing else," was the emphatic statement of Prof. C. J. Budlong, well known and highly respected citizen of Manchester, N. H., residing at 42 School street.

"Practically all my life I had had rheumatism, and when I say rheumatism I mean every word of it. It was all over my body and especially bad in my feet and legs and there were times when I couldn't get from my bed to my chair without help. And from the time I was a boy I couldn't sit down and eat a good meal without being in misery afterwards and I would have terrible pains around my heart and frequent attacks of palpitation and dizziness.

"I had a stubborn case of constipation, was troubled awfully with blind headaches and hardly knew what sleep was. My suffering had almost made a complete nervous wreck of me and I was so weak I wasn't worth a nickel as far as work was concerned. I thought my troubles had a life-long grip on me and was about as discouraged as a man ever gets.

"Well, before I had finished my first bottle of Tanlac I realized it was different from anything I ever tried. It suited my case exactly. And now for almost the first time since I can remember I can eat anything I want and digest it. I haven't an ache or a pain and have gained fifteen pounds in weight. I just feel good all over and am full of life and energy these days. Everywhere I go I talk Tanlac. It hasn't an equal."

Tanlac is sold in Xenia by Sayre & Hemphill and leading druggists.

REV. J. L. CHESTNUT NAMED MODERATOR OF R. P. CHURCH SYNOD

The Rev. James L. Chestnut, pastor of the Seventh Reformed Presbyterian Church, in Philadelphia, was elected Moderator of the Church at the Thursday morning session of the General Synod being held at Cedarville.

The Rev. Chestnut is formerly of Cedarville, a graduate of Cedarville College, and son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Wright, of Cedarville. His election was the result of a close vote in which he defeated the Rev. R. W. Chestnut of Duaneburg, N. Y. Other officers elected were the Rev. L. A. Benson, of Clay Center, Kansas, State Clerk and the Rev. R. W. Chestnut, of Duaneburg, N. Y., assistant clerk.

During the rest of the morning session, a number of reports were received from the board of administration, the board of church extension and sustentation, and the treasurer of the foreign mission board. The treasurer's report showed that the receipts for foreign missions during the past year were $13,000, considered a very good amount for a small denomination.

Standing committees were appointed during the afternoon sessions of the synod and a resolution was passed authorizing telegrams of greeting to be sent to Dr. S. M. Ramsey, of Los Angeles, Calif., one of the oldest ministers in the denomination who was unable to be present; to the Rev. W. J. Smiley, of Spartan, Ill., to the Rev. Robert Hemphill, of Morris, Ill., and to Mrs. Blackburn of Clay Center, Kansas.

Friday afternoon the synod gave itself over entirely to a consideration of the needs of Cedarville College and the prospects for the financial campaign to be launched soon. Dr. J. Alvin Orr, of Pittsburg, Pa., Dr. James L. McQuilkin, of Carnegie, Pa., and Dr. W. W. Liff of Erie, Pa., arrived Friday morning to take part in the community meeting to be held at the Cedarville Opera House, Friday night in the interests of the College, and Dr. Wm. R. Graham of Philadelphia, arrived Thursday afternoon. The synod was disappointed because of the fact that Dr. John B. Wilson of the Grant street R. P. Church of Pittsburg, Pa., was unable to be present.

BEAVERCREEK HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES ITS LARGEST CLASS

The thirty-first annual commencement exercises of the Beaver Creek High School, have been completed by that school, with the highest degree of efficiency and success and with the school's largest class of graduates. Each exercise of the school was held in the Beaver Creek Knights of Pythias Hall which was filled to capacity on each occasion.

On the campus a pretty procession was formed by faculty and students, last Sunday afternoon. The large body proceeded to the hall to hear the Rev. Albert Read of this city, deliver the baccalaureate sermon. Professor D. S. Lynn, District Superintendent, presided at this service. The program was furnished by the fifteen graduates of the school, under the supervision of Prof. W. R. Sayrs.

"The Three Fatal Mistakes" was chosen by Rev. Read as the topic for the baccalaureate sermon which brought out the three outstanding abuses that of liberty means license that success can be bought without labor and that sin can be indulged in with impunity.

The class night exercises were held on two nights, Monday and Tuesday, to accommodate the demand for seats. The effort and success of Miss Letitia Dillencourt in her coaching of the school's dramatic presentation, "A College Comedy—Professor Peppy" was clearly shown in the clever play. From the first line to the final drop of the curtain, the fun and frolic, the plot and counterplot, college scenes, and college songs, the enthusiasm and enterprise of college students kept the audience in laughter for nearly two hours. The play has been judged by those who saw it as a fine piece of work, reflecting credit of the instructor and the pupils. The Beaver Creek Orchestra furnished the music for the Class Night exercises.

On Wednesday night the class heard Dr. O. T. Carson of Oxford, Ohio, who spoke on "The Four C's of Education," Consciousness of Ateer, Cultivation of Power, Citizenship with Power, and Consecration of Moral Power. The motto of the class "Rowing Not Drifting," was the caption of the stage scene.

Rev. J. Stanley Richards, pastor of Beaver Reformed Church offered prayer and benediction was by Rev. Read.

The presentation of diplomas was made at this time by County Superintendent H. C. Aultman.

The following is the list of graduates, faculty and Board of Education:

A WOMAN'S WAY

"I tried for four months to get my wife to try Mayr's Wonderful! Remedy, which I know had helped a friend of mine who also suffered from stomach trouble. She insisted her case was different. I finally had to bribe her with a new dress. The first dose produced remarkable results, clearing was different. I finally had to bribe her appetite. She can now eat things she hadn't been able to for many years." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. All druggists. adv

A GOOD LIFE THE REMEDY AGAINST THE FEAR OF DEATH.

One of the reputed to be wisest men who ever lived, Socrates, said: "Be of good cheer about death, and know this of a truth, that no evil can happen to a good man, either in life or after death."

Death did not strike Adam, the first sinful man; nor Cain, the first hypocrite; but Abel, the innocent and righteous. The first soul that met death overcame death; the first soul parted from earth went to heaven.

Death should particularly command our attention when reminded of it by the passing away in our midst of one of our best men, and by the news of the sudden and unexpected death of Mr. Lane, a citizen of national reputation, and by the word from Washington that Chief Justice White has passed on.

Franklin K. Lane who for seven years was President Wilson's Secretary of the Interior, feeling that he had bodily ailment that should have treatment in a hospital, went to the noted physicians at Rochester, Minn., for this serious operation. Awaiting his turn in the hospital, he wrote a remarkable statement which has been published, and in which he virtually says that come life or death he accepts the result, winding up with the first line of Newman's celebrated hymn: "Lead Kindly Light Amid the Encircling Gloom."

Immediately after he had recovered from the influences of the anaesthetic Mr. Lane said:

"I am surprised to be alive. I hope to be able to live a long life, doing good things for others without thoughts of money."

Lingering as it were on the border-land of life, what a noble sentiment. It would be worthy of any of us and to our great credit if adopted.

News of the passing of Mr. Lane came as a shock to the nation's capital, for so many years even more his home than his chosen place of residence in California.

There were manifestations of grief in every department of the Government, from the President to the messengers in the Interior Department, who had known so long the kindly, humorous and efficient public servant.

Messages of sympathy went to Mrs. Lane from the President and Mrs. Harding, Woodrow Wilson and scores of others high in national and diplomatic life.

DESIRABLES AND UNDESIRABLES.

"Who's 'undesirable'?" asks the Boston Globe, reminding its readers that the Irish were considered undesirable 70 years ago, and that the Germans, now subject to much unfriendliness in this country, were regarded as highly desirable before 1914. The Globe concludes that "the undesirable of one generation is the desirable of the next."

If there is any answer it is that an undesirable immigrant is one who is so considered at the time by the majority of Americans. Every generation must judge for itself, and every decade must judge for itself.

The 1920 census report indicates that of the more than 13,000,000 foreign-born now in this country, the Germans hold first place, owing to the huge German immigration before the World War. Next come Italians. Following, in order of diminution, come Russians, Poles, British, Canadians, Irish, Swedes, Austrians, Mexicans, Hungarians, Norwegians Danes and Greeks.

The alien anti-dumping bill now pending in congress, providing that only 3 per cent of nations living in this country in 1910 shall be admitted in the next fourteen months, would make various changes in this line-up, because the proportions were different a decade ago. The most pronounced change would be the dropping of Italy to fifth place. The United Kingdom (Great Britain and Ireland) would be a little ahead of Germany, with Russia (including Finland) third, Austria-Hungary fourth, Scandinavia sixth, France seventh, Greece eighth and the rest of not much importance.

It is an interesting occupation to figure out in what order of precedence aliens ought to be admitted, according to the present preferences. A national plebiscite on that point would be interesting.

BANKERS FOR DISARMAMENT.

To other powerful influences working for the curtailment of armament expenses is added the American Bankers' Association. That body laments the nation's heavy military expenditures no less than does its fellow banker, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

The latter has pointed out that there is little prospect of any national surplus, or any reduction of the national debt—and therefore of heavy taxes—as long as the present heavy rate of expenditure continues. The bankers' association, through its economic policy commission, urges "that the estimates for the military and naval establishment be carefully considered, with a view to bringing about a reduction of such outlays wherever practicable," and hopes "that the influence of the United States will be exerted toward promoting an amicable arrangement among all nations for definitely limiting and reducing this class of expenditure in the future."

The leading bankers who dominate the policies of the association are in close touch with foreign affairs, on the practical side, and ought to have a pretty good notion what is safe for the vast wealth they represent, and therefore for the United States. If there are any special reasons known at Washington for an increase of military expenditures at this time, of their maintenance at their present level, it would probably be wise to give out the information. Otherwise the tax-oppressed public may grow more critical than the bankers.

Is It Yours?

THIS IS THE BIRTHDAY OF HONORE DE BALZAC May 20, 1799.

In spite of the "de" in his name, which implies that he came from the nobility, the family of Balzac was nothing more than good peasant stock. But the father of Honore de Balzac, one of the greatest of the great French writers, had married an heiress—so, perhaps it was he who longed for the badge of nobility to the extent of adding "de" to his name.

Honore de Balzac was born at Tours in 1799. His wealthy mother put him out to nurse as a baby. Later he was sent to a school where there were no holidays, and where the terrible rules made a lasting impression on him. He was moody, fond of no toys but a tiny violin from which he drew rather awful sounds. He read and studied to the ruin of his health.

He was determined to be a great author. He willingly lived, half starving in a garret, in order to write, then he began a publishing business in the hope that he could go on writing at the same time making enough money for moderate comfort. The business failed, leaving him, like Walter Scott, with a burden of debt that took the rest of his life to pay off. He wrote and wrote, his characters so real to him—and to his readers—that they seemed to move, talk and breathe like living people.

Four women had great influence over him—his sister, two women of social position, and a Russian countess whom he adored and married a few months before his death.

Lima Beans are cantankerous vegetables to get going but once get 'em out of the ground and they will scoot along if given half a chance. First of all a lima has to be planted edgewise with the eye edge down. Even that won't work in many cases. If you plant them in heavy, wet soil. They're too big to force up the weight of the soil. They need assistance even to get out of the ground.

Plant limas in dry soil. Don't plant them when it threatens to rain.

Don't plant them when it is cold or a drop in the thermometer is threatened.

Don't plant them more than an inch deep and if the soil is heavy cover them with an inch of sand instead of soil. The root will hit the dirt all right and the bean will come up through the sand without trouble and keep on its way.

If the soil is poor plant the small seeded kinds. Give the big beaned kinds the richest soil.

Give the bush limas fresh manure but don't give the pole kinds any. Fresh manure sends them all to vine and the beans come late.

Give the pole limas at least nine feet of pole. Six feet is too short and the vines will turn back on themselves, smothering a lot of chance.

Pole beans have grown into disfavor because of the American characteristic of seeking short cuts and labor-saving devices. Bush beans have the call particularly in the string bean class. There are two very good reasons for growing pole beans instead.

Second, the bearing season is almost twice as long.

A third reason is that it is much less wearing on the back and legs to pick beans standing up than it is stooping over and squatting down in the hot sun as is necessary in harvesting bush beans.

One reason pole beans are grown so little compared with the dwarf varieties is because of the trouble and difficulty in securing and setting poles. It isn't as bad a job as it looks for once poles are secured, they may be put away in the fall and used for several seasons. Putting them in place is something of a job but it is worth the trouble.

Pole beans take longer to come into bearing and are a fine continuation crop for bush beans.

One usual mistake is in getting too short poles. On six-foot poles the vines will tumble back when they have reached the top, intertwine and smother themselves. It is best to get eight or nine-foot poles and set them a foot deep in the ground.

FIVE ALLEGED AUTO BANDITS CAPTURED

Chicago, May 19.—Five auto bandits were captured here today in a sensational chase after they had robbed the Division State Bank of $5,000 in currency. During the hold-up, C. A. Brandner, cashier of the bank was wounded in the arm.

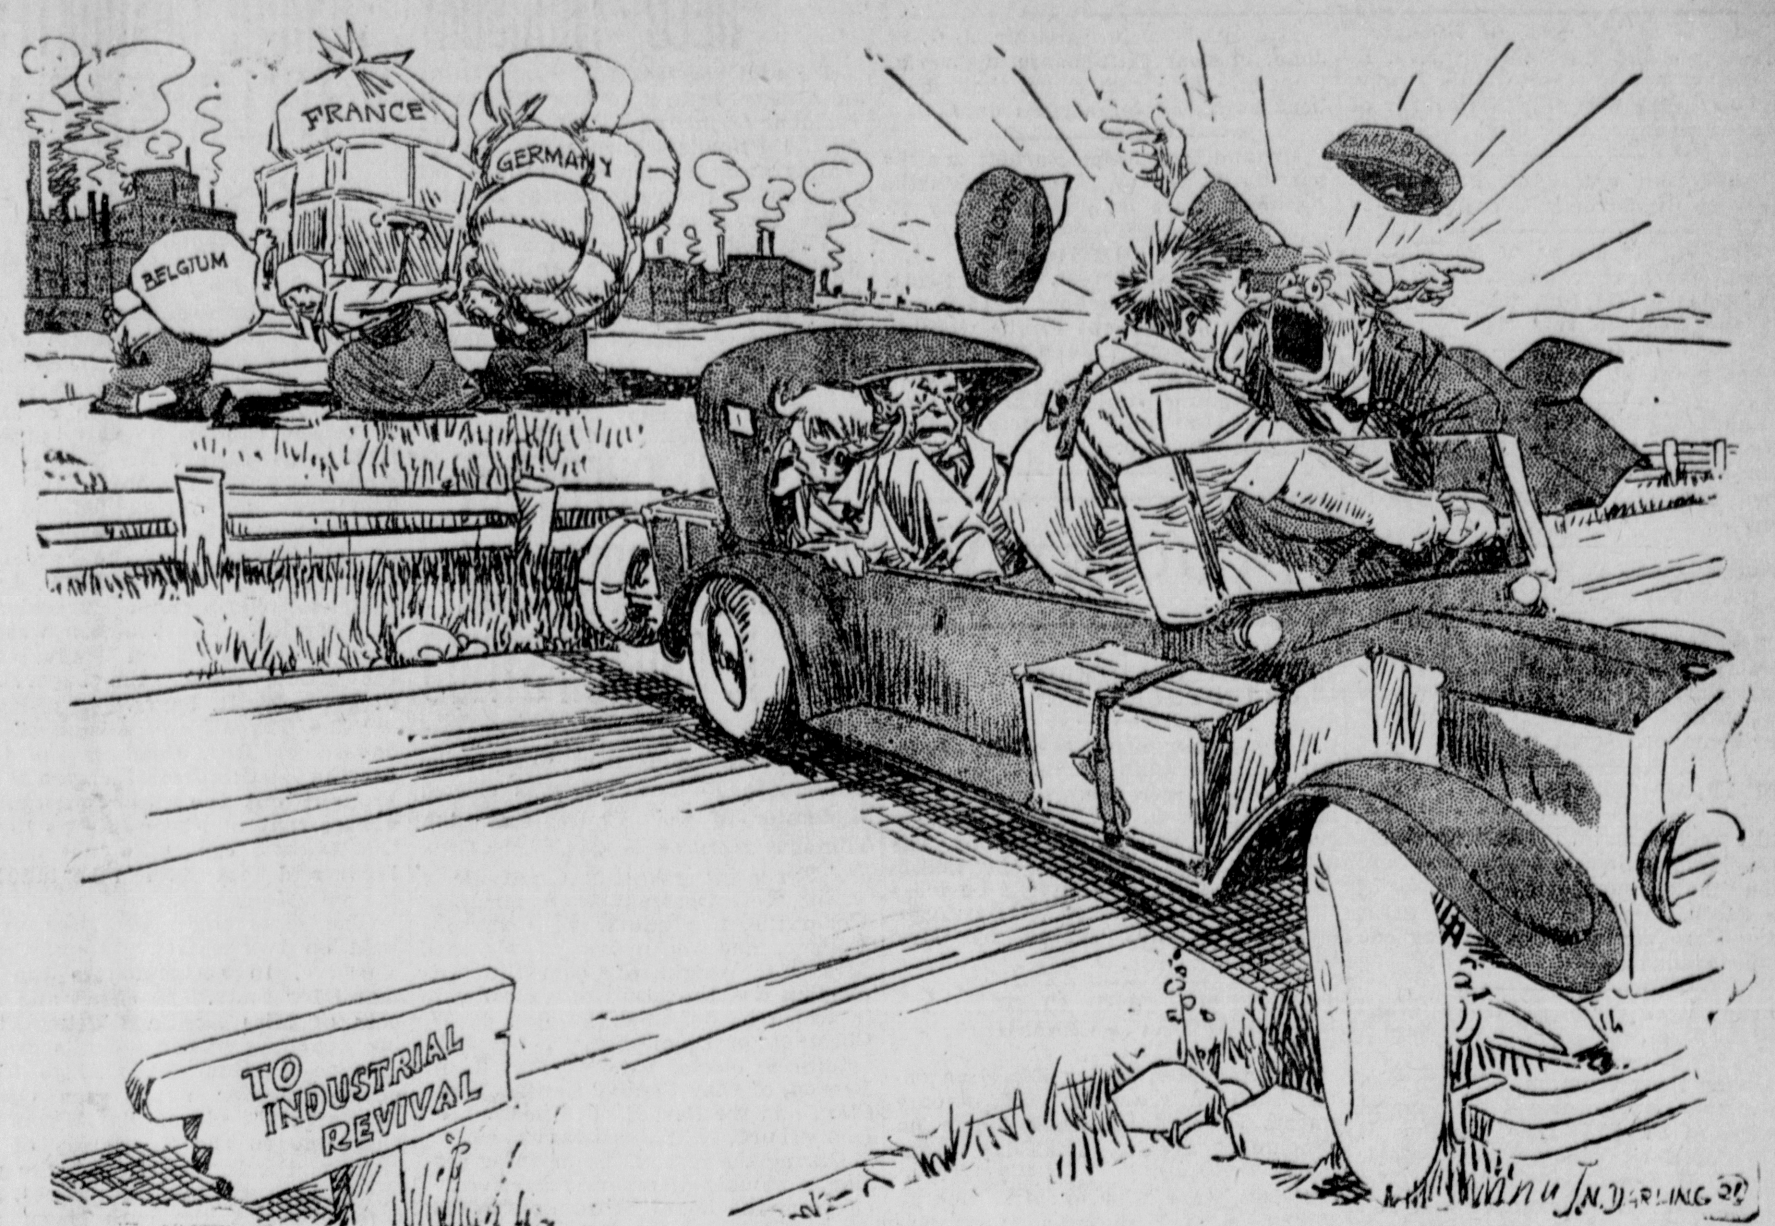

As the bandits fled, a policeman gave chase. The bandit car overturned while taking a corner at high speed. One of the bandits was wounded by the policeman in attempting to escape. Citizens aided in capturing the other four. The money was recovered.

EGGS WILL KEEP IN WATER GLASS

Low-priced eggs may be kept for months in a solution made of one part of water-glass and nine parts of water, preferably clean, boiled, and cooled rain water. It is best to use infertile eggs, but fresh, clean eggs gathered daily and placed in the water-glass solution keep well. The water-glass and the water must be thoroughly mixed. A five-gallon jar will hold 15 dozen eggs. It is not necessary that the jar be filled with eggs at one time; a few may be added to the jar each day.

Infertile eggs can be secured after the roosters have been separated from the flock for two weeks.

THE HARE AND THE TORTOISE

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

A new method of beating the rule against dogs being taken in a coach on the Pan Handle developed this morning at the depot. When the train pulled in a lady of stylish appearance, alighted and opened a large valise and out popped a dog. When the conductor shouted "all aboard" the dog was hustled into the valise and the woman calmly boarded the train.

Cincinnati is awake to the fact that a great religious convention will be held there from July 6 to 10, when the Christian Endeavorers will invade the "Queen City of the West." The people of the city are making every preparation for the event.

There is again rejoicing at the Citizen's National Bank and this time the happy man is Mr. Ora Whittington. It's a girl and Ora has been so flustered since her arrival that he hasn't been able to correctly add up a column of figures, even with the aid of the new adding machine.

Mr. James Fletcher is happy over the advent of a new boy at his home on West Second Street.

Dr. Eber Reynolds accompanied by his sister left today for Saranac, New York where they will spend the coming summer months.

MAIL ROBBERIES.

Once a man could send a letter this wide continent across, and he didn't need to sweat or walk the floor through fear of loss. We had faith in Uncle Sammy as the guardian of the mail, and the robber's fate was clammy who would lift our uncle's kale. Oft I mailed a million dollars to some creditors of mine—men who dealt in socks and collars or in hops of kickless wine—and they always got the plunder on the right and proper day; it was then a thing of wonder if a koepke went astray. Then the robber told his fellow, when they planned a crib to slam, "Steal from any other fellow—do not steal from Uncle Sam; thieves have tried in countless numbers that old graft without avail, for our Uncle never slumbers and he never quits a trail." But the robbers now are busy swiping mail from Uncle Sam, and he's looking pained and dizzy and as helpless as a clam. Every day a fortune's taken from the mails, the nation grieves, and the sleuths bring home no bacon when they go to pinch the thieves. Every day thieves make a killing, stealing valued postal cards, and I fear to mail a shilling, as do all the other bards.

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

Friend wife was once disposed to criticize the advertiser who used full pages and "double spreads" and colors.

She said it was "luxurious." Said the message could be as well told in black and white in smaller space. Said advertising could be made to pay up to a certain point and any expenditure beyond that point was unnecessary and unprofitable. Said the purchaser of the goods had to stand this advertising "waste." Ergo, the big advertiser was exalting himself and satisfying his own conceit at the expense of the ultimate consumer.

A month ago friend wife asked me: "What's become of Blank's So-and-so? I couldn't find it in any of the stores to-day."

My answer: "Gone under. Good product. Not sufficiently advertised to carry through the slump." Sales fell off. Had to raise the price. No one would pay the increase."

She: "My goodness! I begin to see a light. It was a favorite of mine, and I lose it because it wasn't advertised enough."

Friend wife is now disposed to approve big dominating advertisements. She says: "The cost is insurance for the advertiser and me."

Some time ago a dealer came to the manufacturer of one of his lines and said, "I must have a bigger discount. Can't do business on the present margin."

The manufacturer answered: "If I give you more discount I shall have to raise the consumer's price. You do not buy enough to realize me a profit as it is. Go back and advertise in your local newspapers to get sales. If, when you reach a certain volume you feel the need of it, I will enlarge your discount."

The dealer began advertising and, being a gentleman, soon wrote the manufacturer: "Your advice has enabled me to double my sales. Am realizing plenty of profit on the line now."

The manufacturer, also a gentleman, replied: "Your increased business and that of my other dealers make it possible for me to reduce the consumer's price and enlarge your discount."

There you have it! The manufacturer makes more. The dealer makes more. The article costs you and me less. Who pays for advertising anyway?

In the words of the old minister: "I now come to my thirdly." The majority of folks are vastly entertained by "looking at the advertisements."

They enjoy the beautiful illustrations, products of the best artists. They comment on the cleverness of the advertiser who presents his argument in a few flashing words. They like to pick weak advertisements to pieces and reconstruct them "as I would have said it" or "as I would have illustrated it."

More than that a great big part of the world's information regarding the out-of-the-ordinary is obtained from advertising.

Not only are we educated in art and the powerful use of simple words, but we learn about commerce, and industrial processes, and systems, and the way the other fellow lives, and the tastes of the wealthy, and unusual bits of history. And we learn how to economize by learning how to spend with judgment.

And in all, advertising teaches us how to make better use of our lives.

Practical Business Talks

REAL SERVICE.

There is a well known business organization which has for its motto, "He profits most who serves best."

One does not need necessarily to belong to a club to realize the deep truth conveyed by this pointed epigram.

Your business is something more than merely an organization for profit.

Looking at a store, shop, factory or other business enterprise from the broad standpoint, we see that its chief aim is service to the community or to the nation.

The purpose of the management of such an enterprise should primarily be that of improving service—of making a better cheaper article—of providing more convenient means of distribution—of serving better in whatever field it may be.

But humanitarian motives are not the only reasons for such a policy.

He profits most who serves best. Just as honesty is the best business policy, so the most profitable business enterprise is the one which gives the best service. So there is a business reason as well as a moral or ethical one for endeavoring to serve the public more efficiently and more satisfactorily.

The company which makes the best car for the price, sells the most cars. The manufacturer who makes the best soap, or cracker, or washing machine at the lowest price—that is gives the best value and service—sells more goods and makes more profit.

Whether or not you happen to be a Rotarian, if you want to prosper in business keep in mind the Rotarian motto: "He profits most who serves best."

BANDITS HOLD UP DRIVER OF TRUCK

Cincinnati, May 19.—Eight bandits in two touring cars at 9 o'clock this morning held up the driver of a truck containing 210 cases of whiskey and after compelling the driver to enter one of the bandit cars spirited him away. Other bandits then drove the booze chariot rapidly out Colerain Avenue, on which thoroughfare the hold up occurred.

Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs

made twenty-nine years ago by Sidney's Shakespeare and New Century clubs to organize a state federation was made at the Middle West district conference at Sidney, May 10 and 11 by Mrs. S. W. Laughlin of Sidney.

The Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs with a membership now of more than 100,000 was first conceived at Sidney, Mrs. Laughlin declared. Two years later or in 1920 the Ohio Federation was organized at Springfield with Mrs. George Lincoln of London, as the first president. "Although we may not be called the mother of the federation, I think that is no more than right we should be known as a parent of it," she smiled proudly.

The Sidney pioneer attempt to organize a state federation curiously enough had its inception at the home of Mrs. W. O. Amann, president of the Sidney federation, who has ever since then been one of the most active club women in Ohio. The conference at Sidney this year was successful to a marked degree the various district reports and program numbers being uncommonly helpful. Mayor H. K. Forsythe warmly welcomed the club women in behalf of the city and Mrs. W. H. C. Good extended cordial greetings for the Sidney federation.

Mrs. Raymond Kerr, Tippecanoe City, legislative chairman for the Middle West district, has divided her district into three divisions with a chairman for each division, thus actively work quickly and effectively when called upon. Westerville has asked for the 1922 conference of the Central district. The Dayton federation has just finished planting trees along all the highways entering the Gem City. It had cinema views taken of some and these are now being dispatched all over the United States to encourage a similar movement that it is hoped to make general.

A rest room is supported at Ada, Hardin county, by the Ada federation. The federation there has also presented two women for members of the school board in this little college town.

"There is strength in union and joy in service" is the message that comes from the Woman's Club at Wapakoneta. That is the one lesson Wapakoneta club women say they have especially learned this year. The Unity club at Sidney is forty years old.

St. Mary's federation has for its motto, "The best is yet to be done." Bellefontaine's Economics Club is furnishing all the jelly needed for Mary Rutan hospital there during the current months. It is announced by the officers of this same club that every member exercised her right of franchise in the last election and they are proud of it.

Shoes and clothing for children were furnished all winter at London by the federation there. The London federation organized a League of Women Voters and is now working for a club-house.

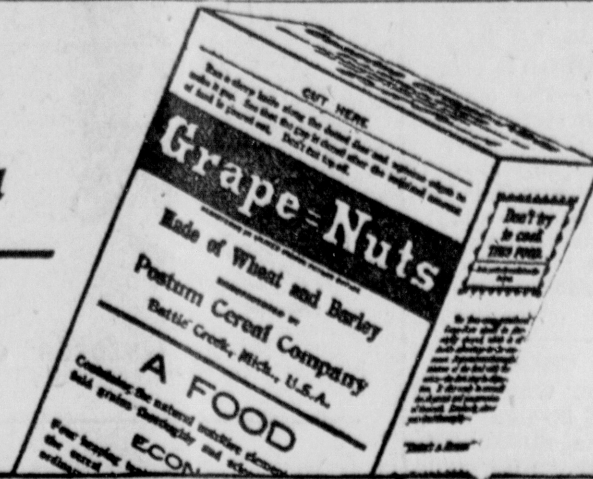

T. E. B.—You, have pyorrhea which can be cured if it has not gone too far. It was considered a hopeless condition until recently, so be sure to find an up-to-date dentist. Pyorrhea comes from an acid condition in the mouth, forming tartar, that collects under the edge of the gums. It is a tedious task for a dentist as he must turn back the edge of the gums and remove the deposit with the fine tools which means all hand work and care. After this, there is the treatment to harden and strengthen the gums, so they will hold the roots of the teeth firmly though they will never grow down over the teeth as they were formerly.

The dentist will also prescribe a wash that will neutralize the acids and assist in building up a healthy condition in the mouth but the patient should help in this by giving the gums more exercise through masticating a coarser diet. Do not feel discouraged and allow the dentist to persuade you to part with all those good teeth, as your case may be cured easily. This thorough cleaning costs much more than the slipshod way where only the visible part of the teeth is done, but it is worth more than the price, as it means health to the mouth.

A PRETTY PROFILE

In talking about the profile and the possible measures that might be taken to improve it, we have emphasized such things as changing the style of hair dressing so as to adapt to the face, and keeping the skin fine and clear with color in the cheeks. Color plays an enormous part in making the profile nice looking or ordinary, since it gives a becoming roundness and softness to the side face.

But one point we have never talked about to any extent, is the very great importance of holding the head well. The profile is not only forehead, nose and chin—it is also the top of the head and the line of the back of the head, which can make or mar one's whole appearance, and the line running down the back of the neck.

The shape of the head can always be modified or altered by the way the hair is combed, and a flat line founded by placing the knot of hair at the most becoming point. These are things to be studied out carefully with the aid of a couple of mirrors.

For the chin line is good or bad according to the way the head is held. Hold it high—not stiffly high but easily, naturally high. The chin should be up and out a trifle. This again is a matter to be studied with the aid of a couple of mirrors, for over-emphasis is apt to look ridiculous and the difference between that and real grace is as slight as it is important. A good plan is to hold the chest as high as possible. This draws the back of the neck, and helps throw the head into position.

Business Woman—The exercises which you are able to take may not be of the kind to keep you from being constipated. You can help yourself by a gentle massage across the abdomen where the large colon is located. You can also effect this by a motion of kneading the abdomen, with the palm of the hand, taking in the right side below and under the ribs, which will keep the liver toned also. This can be done in the morning before rising, massaging the region of the liver while lying flat on back; but that for the colon, while lying on either side. Take more fruit, especially acid fruit, before eating your breakfast. If you will send an addressed stamped envelope, full directions will be mailed to you.

GERMANY WILL RELY UPON TREATY FOR ALL PROTECTION IN UPPER SILESIA

Berlin, May 19.—The German government issued a proclamation today threatening prosecutions against any persons who attempt to recruit volunteers to fight the Poles in Upper Silesia. This action was taken following the receipt of an allied note, protesting against any formal participation by Germany in the Upper Silesian trouble. German officials said this country would remain aloof, relying upon the treaty of Versailles to protect German interests in Upper Silesia.

Adelbert Korfanty, the Polish representative in Upper Silesia and leader of the Polish insurgents has made reply to Premier Lloyd George's declaration of warning, bitterly attacking the British statesman.

In a signed statement in the news paper Grenzzeitung (Korfanty's organ in Upper Silesia) the Polish leader threatens to destroy all the mines and industries in Upper Silesia "before he will see them turned over to Germany."

The inter-allied commission in Upper Silesia has approved Italy's demand for seven million lire from Poland as indemnity for the killing of Italian soldiers by Polish insurgents according to information from Oppeln.

Polish rebels continue their depredations in Upper Silesia. Advice from Beuthen said that the Poles had seized thirty two trains loaded with coal and had taken them towards the Polish frontier.

Of Interest to the Farmer

ADVISES SALE OF COCKERELS YOUNG

The only hope of poultrymen to realize on cockerels is to sell them as soon as they reach a marketable weight, which is one and one-quarter to one and one-half pounds. The price goes down rapidly after the young birds begin to reach the market says G. S. Vickers, Poultry specialist of the Ohio State University.

Pullets that show a low vitality are slow to grow, are unprofitable to keep and should also be marketed at the earliest opportunity.

In selecting the birds to sell the poultrymen are advised by Mr. Vickers to sell all birds that are long-legged, long-necked, crow-headed, cross-eyed, shallow-bodied, and roach-backed and to keep for breeding stock only those birds that are short-legged, deep bodied, thick-necked, and that have a well balanced head and large prominent eyes (bug-eyed). Birds of the latter sort are early maturing and make fine breeders and prolific layers.

WILL ESTABLISH SIGNAL CORPS UNIT

Columbus, May 20.—The military department at Ohio State University has received permission from the United States Army to establish a signal corps unit in connection with the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

Ohio State University is the eleventh school to be thus honored as they are awarded only to schools that rank high in electrical engineering standing. The personnel of the corps will be restricted entirely to the electrical engineers. The first years training will include the fundamental infantry drill. The second will include training for signal corps telephones, switchboard and radio equipment.

If a student desires to continue the course during his last two years, he will receive compensation from the government for the time spent thusly.

An officer of the United States Army will be in charge of the unit and upon the entrance of the next school year, recruiting for the new unit will commence.

SUGAR WILL KEEP MIXTURE IN SHAPE

That granulated sugar will keep bordeaux spray mixture from deteriorating is the discovery of the Oregon Agricultural Experiment Station. It is well known by orchardists that bordeaux becomes almost worthless unless used shortly after being mixed. This trouble can be overcome by adding one-eighth ounce of granulated sugar dissolved in water for each pound of copper sulfate (blue vitriol or bluestone) used. When sugar is used in the proportion mentioned the spray mixture will not spoil on account of a break down or delay on account of rain.

For a 200-gallon tank of 6-6-50 bordeaux, which will require 24 pounds of bluestone, dissolve three ounces (seven heaping teaspoons) of sugar in a little water and add slowly to the tank of spray, agitating until thoroughly mixed. Too much sugar must not be added. For small amounts of spray, dissolve one well rounded, but not heaping, teaspoon of sugar in one quart of water then use at the rate of one-half pint of this solution for each pound of bluestone going into the amount of bordeaux required.

TRAINING STABLE OF PROMISING STEPPERS

Colby Turner the "armless wonder" race horse trainer and driver, is training his stable of promising steppers at the Fairgrounds track in anticipation of opening of the local oval during the spring race meeting of the Xenia Trotting Association to be given June 21, 22, 23 and 24.

While Colby is not training his speeders he drives about Xenia's streets in a pony cart pulled by a little black pony not much larger than a Colie dog. The little fellow is not averse to pulling the race horse man wherever he wants to go unless he happens to run afoul of a stretch of paved street that has been newly sprinkled.

The pony seems to have taken a dislike to water, for when he encountered such circumstances on a city street several days ago, he jumped the curb and ran around in a ring three times, refusing to pass until he had been led over the wet place in the street.

SOYBEANS USED AS CLOVER SUBSTITUTE

Many Ohio farmers are wondering what to do with fields where the clover has failed.

If the stand is very poor an excellent substitute is the soybean says J. B. Park, Professor of Farm Crops at the Ohio State University. It will save breaking up the rotation by substituting one legume for another. It will make a good yield of hay that is equal to alfalfa or it will make a seed crop that has a greater cash value per acre than corn. The seed is not sold it can be fed to livestock and will be equal, pound for pound, to commercial oil meals. Fifteen to twenty bushels per acre is a fair yield on good land.

Why the clover failed is not always easy to say. That it has died or looks very sick on many fields is the plain fact. Lack of lime in the soil, diseases, insects, and late freezes, all these and perhaps other causes alone or in combination may have contributed to the undoing of the unhappy clover.

TWO HORSES ARRIVE FROM SO. CAROLINA

Two horses from the stable of J. W. Folk of Columbia, S. C., arrived in Xenia, Friday morning and were taken to the Fairgrounds, where they will be gotten into condition by Trainer Watts, who accompanied them, for the spring race meeting of the Xenia Trotting Association, to be held June 21, 22, 23 and 24.

The two new steppers added to the growing stable at the Fairgrounds are Nina Whitney and Miss Rejesta, both of them experienced on the twice-arounds, and due to start their summer season with the early meeting here. The addition of these two speeders brings the list up to 35 entrants already housed in the Fairgrounds stables.

"HER UNWILLING HUSBAND"

Are you—or have you—an unwilling husband. Wise wives and other wise—and all husbands should see BLANCHE SWEET in "HER UNWILLING HUSBAND." Laugh with you, better half. It's a semi-naughty, slightly risqué, near-bedroom farce comedy in 5 reels.

Escape the "Stout" Class

An attractive figure is not a matter of size but of correct proportions. The stout women who are never spoken of as "stout" are those who give a little time and thought to proper corseting.

Rengo Belt Reducing Corsets give the wearer an appearance of slenderness. The exclusive Rengo Belt feature gives strength and support where the greatest strain falls—over the abdomen and hips. They have the reputation of being "the most economical reducing corsets ever devised."

Best By Test

Factory Test Proves It

EVERY housewife knows that the strength of spices, extracts, etc., varies. It is not always the same. This is true of materials used in the manufacture of baking powder. But it is never true of Calumet Baking Powder.

Every ingredient used in the manufacture of Calumet is critically tested in our own laboratories by expert analytical chemists. Every material that enters into the manufacture of Calumet must measure up to a definite standard of perfection.

After the various ingredients are combined Calumet is again tested for chemical purity and uniformity; then it is tested by our own chefs, in our own kitchens for baking quality.

There can be no variation of quality. The "Best by Test" policy of manufacture insures every buyer—in every can of Calumet a baking powder of absolute dependability.

Every can of Calumet is the same—its keeping qualities are perfect. The last spoonful is as good as the first.

There can be no baking mistakes—no bake day loss. The value of Calumet is proved before you purchase. You are protected absolutely.

Look Out for This

When you buy a pound can of Calumet, you get a full pound—16 ounces—no short weights. Some baking powders are now being put on the market in 12-ounce cans instead of pound cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Home Test Proves It

CALUMET has no "near" competition. There is no baking powder as good—or nearly as good. You obtain decidedly better results. Your bakings are much lighter, flakier, finer in flavor, more palatable. You'll be surprised at what a difference there really is.

Results are the only true measure of any baking powder's value. And by results Calumet proves "Best by Test."

Millions of housewives use Calumet. Not because someone told them it is better—not because someone else uses it, but because it has proved itself "Best by Test"—because it gives the best baking results at lowest baking cost.

Calumet is not only the highest quality baking powder but also the least expensive.

You save when you use it—has more than the ordinary leavening strength—therefore you use less. You save materials it's used with, never fails.

Made in world's largest and finest baking powder factories. Sold under a guarantee of money back if you don't find it "Best by Test."

Order a can. Overcome bake-day uncertainties—bake-day loss.

Valuable 72-Page Cook Book

Handsomely illustrated in colors. Hundreds of helps in reducing household expenses.

NO ROOM FOR LAW BREAKERS OR I. W. W. SAYS SPEAKER HERE

"There is no room in the Loyal Order of Moose for the law breaker, the I. W. W., the Bolshevik, the anarchist or the disloyalist under any name or description, whatsoever."

"This is only one of the many forceful epigrams stated by Hon. Darius A. Brown, supreme dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose to a body of members of the local order, that heard his address at the Opera House on Thursday night."

"I will speak in a perfectly frank, straightforward manner," said Mr. Brown at the opening of his address, on what I believe to be a solution of the social and industrial problems. I believe I know of a system which we might call an insurance, which although it is not life insurance, nor sick nor accident insurance, it is one by which any honest working man may know for a certainty, that no matter what may become of him, his wife and children will be cared for."

"This system of insurance has been worked out by the L. O. O. M., one of the greatest fraternal orders of the world. The Moose have developed the system, and the credit is due the Moose, not only of having the protection in operation as a shelter over the heads of millions of children, but as well, this great organization can point with pride to a thousand or more boys and girls who have, through this plan, been lifted from the depths and started on their way right."

"We need more fraternalism in every phase and activity of life. We need more fraternalism in our social relations, especially in our attitude towards the man or woman who has made a false step. We need to give more attention to the existence and correction of our own faults and less to discovery and punishment of those of our neighbor."

A good sized audience heard Mr. Brown's address on Thursday night, and learn something about Mooseheart's accomplishments, aims and purposes. "The L. O. O. M. determined to consecrate the power, energies and activities to the idea that every boy or girl is entitled to at least a high school education and a vocation or trade and Mooseheart was founded," was the statement made by Mr. Brown in connection with the plan and result of the Moose Lodge.

Mr. Brown's presence in Xenia was the inauguration of the big membership plan that is to be conducted by the Lodge for the next 90 days. While no active campaign has been made, the lodge has made an effort to increase its membership during the past winter. Practically every Moose organization in the country is making a campaign for membership at this time. The Dayton lodge has announced large plans, and several members of that lodge will be in this city next week to aid in the local membership campaign.

FORMAL OPENING OF COUNTRY CLUB DRAWS LARGE CROWD OF MEMBERS ON THURSDAY

With a variety of outdoor sports, a gay supper party and a delightful dance that did not lose its popularity until well after midnight, the Xenia Country Club was formally opened to its members, Thursday afternoon and evening.

Ideal weather added to the auspicious conditions under which the opening affair, postponed from last week because of rain, was held. Yielding to the charm of the occasion almost two hundred people visited the Club, many taking part in the outdoor sports offered there, and the floor being veritably crowded with dancers who could not resist the strains of the music after supper.

The Club was thrown open officially at two o'clock and many arrived early to enjoy the outdoor advantages. At two o'clock shooting enthusiasts held a pigeon shoot at the gun club, the crack of the guns continuing until five o'clock. Gun Club enthusiasts say the day was one of the best of the weekly shoots.

Although the fact that the links are not completed, and that only four holes are available for play forbade any important match contests, the greens were thick with golfers especially late in the afternoon. Many club members just learning the game, have become golf enthusiasts during their first play, and were improving their strokes on the practice course during the afternoon.

The practice sessions, and four-hole match contests attracted a large gallery at times during the afternoon, the summer games of the women adding to the gay scene.

Play on the two tennis courts, also drew a large audience practically all afternoon, some excellent matches being staged impromptu between tennis enthusiasts on the Club roster.

Serving began at 6:30 o'clock, the tables being arranged in the main club room, the locker room, and on the wide, attractive porch, and many eating from the benches placed in the shade in the rear of the Club House.

The meal was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kany, who offered chicken patties, potatoes, fruit salad, rolls, coffee, ice cream and fresh strawberries and cake. So many were there to be served, that the guests had to be taken care of in two sections. According to the dinner tickets, sold 151 were seated at the tables, in the two divisions.

The McKay Brothers Orchestra of Wilmington, a delightful combination of brass and string instruments, and the ever-popular marmabophone, offered strains of music to tempt the tired feet of those who had already played themselves tired, and the floor of the main club room, and the porch were crowded with dancers during the entire evening.

Although scheduled to play only until twelve, so popular was the dancing, that the orchestra was held until one o'clock, many of the dancers remaining until the "Home Sweet Home" number. Popular melodies were well interpreted by the orchestra, which is composed of three McKay brothers, from Wilmington, playing the saxophones and the banjo. Forest Hurley, of this city, and Ervin Swindler, of Wilmington, formerly of this city, at the marmabophone.

Situated at the highest point in the vicinity, the club house itself on a knoll that rolls away on all sides to the links, the new society resort, which promises to be a most popular place for Xenians to play, offers excellent natural advantages to attract the eye. From the porch of the mince on which the club house rests, the view is excellent.

The popularity of the opening affair, and the dance, insures a series of similar affairs in the future.

ONLY FEW TRAINS AFFECTED BY CHANGE

Only a few trains are affected by the regular spring change of time on the Pennsylvania Railroad, as just announced, to go into effect Sunday, May 22, by Ticket Agent I. F. Emery.

The most important change in the train schedule is the advancing of the morning accommodation train to Columbus, from 8:40 o'clock to 8:27 o'clock, a change of 13 minutes. Other changes, which are included in the time table, run weekly in this paper, only affect the trains by two or three minutes.

The time of trains as printed is Central Standard Time, under which time the railroad operates, and persons carrying daylight saving time, will have to compute the train arrivals and departures an hour later, than they are marked.

The Revolt of Vera Sanderson

By JANE PHELPS.

VERA GROWS MORE REBELLIOUS

Chapter 46

Life was daily, I was going to say hourly, growing more difficult for me. It was not the big things of life that made it so; it was seemingly, at times, the matters of no real importance that caused me the most misery. I was frightened for myself. What did the future hold for me? What further depths of unhappiness?

Margaret Dalton, my husband's sister, hated me. Yet I must live in the same house with her, give up my desires to please her—even in the most trivial things.

Keith had kept his promise to Margaret. My little Pom had been sent away. The only concession I could win was that it should be sent to his mother's home, where the old housekeeper would look after it for me.

"When Mother comes back you can run down and stay a week or so," he said, trying to comfort me. But as his mother would not return for months it was rather cold comfort.

It was almost laughable how quickly Margaret recovered after she had had her way. But she made it an extra cause for finding fault with me, by saying:

"You see, Vera, if you had let the dog go at once when you found me getting so nervous I should have been spared several very unpleasant days. It is strange how a selfish person can upset an entire household. I don't mind so much for myself, but when I am ill, Keith and the children are so unhappy and the servants become disorganized."

I made no reply to this lengthy tirade. I was becoming almost afraid to answer her for fear I abused, that I could not keep still and construe or which she would repeat to Keith with embellishments.

I grieved terribly for my little Pom. He had been so cunning, so affectionate. Gloria cuddled in my arms one day soon after he had been sent to the country and said:

"I think Mother was just as mean as could be to send your doggie away."

I reprimanded her for speaking so of her mother, yet in my heart I echoed every word—with other adjectives added.

Keith saw I was grieved and tried to make it up to me by being unusually kind and generous for some days afterward. But as usual Margaret insisted he do for her all he had done for me, and he soon drifted back into the same old way of consulting her as to what he should buy me or allow me to have.

At this time Keith was much away from home. Although I was often terribly unhappy, I really tried to keep most of the unpleasant things that happened from him. But occasionally I felt so bitter, so abused, that I could not keep still and would complain bitterly of Margaret's actions. It invariably brought on a quarrel, at best a disagreement. And although I felt it was driving Keith from me, I could not control myself at times. I so longed for sympathy, for understanding from him.

The more unhappy I was, the more I loved Keith. It sounds paradoxical but it was true. Had it not been for Erma Longstreet I don't know how I could have endured my life at times. But when I was blue and disheartened I often went to her for an hour or two, and her sweet, sane outlook upon life and things helped me—for the time being.

Mrs. Grant, too continued to be nice to me. Of course we had not been to the club since Father Sanderson passed away, although I played occasionally with Erma and Jim, just to keep myself from forgetting what I had learned.

"Margaret will be sure to bar me out if she can when she comes back to go out again," I told them. Our mourning had been another bone of contention between us. Black was terribly unbecoming to me, dull black. But Margaret insisted that I wear it, unrelieved by any touches of white.

"I can't understand your objecting," she said acidly when I said that a daughter-in-law was not expected to be as funnily clad as an own daughter. "Most girls in your position would be glad to show respect to their husband's father."

"It's no lack of respect, Margaret," I returned. "And because you think it is the right thing to do I am willing to wear black in the street. But it is horribly unbecoming to me; it makes me look lifeless and sorrowful. I hate to look so badly before Keith, especially now when he is home so little."

"It is of Keith I am thinking. He would feel dreadfully, did he hear you talk. I wear black, why shouldn't you?"

I said no more. What was the use? The black was becoming to her, Margaret knew; she also knew it was not to me. This discussion had been brought on because I had put on a simple white dress for dinner one night when I expected Keith. He did not come, which Margaret said was fortunate.
